

You're Being Deployed

DEPLOYMENT IS

READINESS

Deployments by definition is a rapid movement of resources in support of a specific mission. The same thing can be said for demobilizations. Pack light, stay light, and be flexible.

TEMPORARY

From the moment you arrive, the one thing you know for sure, is that you will be going home. End each work day as if it will be your last at this location. Say your goodbyes to colleagues and friends as you go along.

ENOUGH

You may serve the exact time you planned, opt to head home early for your own well-being, or may be demobilized sooner than expected. Know that the work you did was vital and important. You made the difference every day.
